Executive Plan Overview

Throughout our history BusBank has developed and executed large scale customized emergency evacuation plans throughout North America which has assisted in the relocation of thousands of people in need.

Our extensive network of operators throughout North America allows for flexibility regardless of plan size, budget or service intricacy.

Though there are countless benefits of investing in an emergency evacuation program the most important is getting those in need out of harm’s way in an efficient and timely manner.

What We've Done

Over the years we have developed many disaster relief plans for emergency evacuations. Most notably, we were contracted in 2005 to assist with relief efforts for Hurricane Katrina and in 2012 for Hurricane Sandy.

"The BusBank has made a world of difference for so many people. Not only do they foresee issues before they arise but they are able to make changes due to worsening weather and traffic conditions on the fly."

The BusBank Difference

By working with independent operators rather than owning buses we are able to maintain the flexibility to customize transportation solutions that fit the needs of the client in any situation.

Our independent network of bus operators is the largest of its kind in all of North America. What helps to set us apart is our in-depth industry knowledge that has been built upon over the last 16 years.

Operators are added to our network only after an initial screening process. They are able to stay in our network only by providing our customers with quality and dependable transportation as promised.

The BusBank understands the importance of limiting the negative impact on our environment by reducing greenhouse gas emissions. In an effort to do so, we have the unique ability to leverage the size and diversity of our operator network and the use of "green" and environmentally friendly vehicles powered by alternative fuel, such as B-20.
